Book for 1805 contains a thousand and one items of valuable information, statistics, records, &c., regarding local, national and international affairs. Twenty-five cents per copy at The Star office.

He Must Have Been a Visitor. To the Editor of The Evening Star:

I wish to call your attention to one exssperating way in which the great lack of manners which at least one man in Washington possesses is manifested. Sunday evening my escort and I boarded a 11th street car on the avenue and secured seats. The car having gone a few blocks was rapidly filled with ladies, to one of whom, accompanied evidently by her husband, my escort gave his seat. In a few moments the man in the corner next said lady left the car, and in the twinkling of an eye the husband settled into the vacated space, leaving my escort to stand for the entire journey home as a reward for his courtesy.

Junior Epworth League.

McKendree Junier Epworth League gave a very pleasant sociable to its members last evening, the program being solely under the charge of the juniors. There were plano ducts by Misses Mable and Bessie Gheen, and Misses Mable Gheen and Sadie Bacon; recitations by the Misses Gheen, Bacon and Flossie White; plano solo, by Miss Lillie White; vocal solo, by Miss Alice Johnson, and autoharp solo, by Miss Gertie Coder; magic lantern views by Master Joseph Locke, followed with refreshments.

Pleasant Presentation.

The Christmas entertainment of the North Carolina Avenue Methodist Protestant Church, Rev. E. C. Makosky, pastor, which was held on Thursday night last, was a delightful affair, and was attended by a very large audience. The feature of the evening was the presentation to the pastor, from the officers and teachers, an immense stocking, in the toe of which was a pocketbook containing a handsome sum of money. Presents were made by the teachers to their several classes, and each of the latter presented its teacher with an acceptable gift.

Charles Sumner Relief Corps. The officers of Charles Sumner Relief Corps were installed last night at their rooms, Grand Army Hall. Miss Clara T. Chase, past president of the corps, was detailed to install them. In spite of the snow storm a large crowd of friends graced the affair. The following officers took the eath of office, and were duly installed: President, Miss Duckett; senior vice president, Mrs. Hamilton; junfor vice president, Mrs. Scott; chaplain, Mrs. Childs; con-ductor, Mrs. Fowler; guard, Mrs. Fletcher; treasurer, Miss Queenan; secretary, Miss Goings; assistant conductor, Mrs. Simms; assistant guard, Mrs. Aradelle.
A short program followed the installation.

Mrs. Julia Mason Layton, department in-spector and president of O. P. Morton Corps, was present and made a short but forcible address. The retiring president, Miss Luia Chase, was presented a handsome solid silver tea service by the corps as a token of their appreciation for her earnest work during the year. Past Commander West made the presentation. Miss Chase in a very appropriate speech thanked her friends for their excellent gift.

Reception to Bishop Paret.

The P. E. Church people of the District of Columbia will give a reception to Bishop and Mrs. Paret at the Ebbitt House Wednesday, January 9, at 8:30 p.m., in honor of the tenth anniversary of the bishop's consecration. It will be under the auspices of the Churchman's League, whose president, Chief Justice Fuller, will preside and introduce the bishop.

There will doubtless be a large attendance. The Churchman's League is now quite a flourishing organization, numbering about two hundred and thirty members already. Its objects are "to stimulate the efforts of laymen in behalf of the P. E. Church; to develop larger and more comprehensive views of the interests and responsibilities of churchmen; to foster an Intelligent study of the doctrine and polity of the church; to promote sociability H. Adams, financial secretary, and I. E. among the clergy and lalty of the different Duckett, treasurer. Refreshments were parishes; and to give voice to the public opinion of churchmen." "Any baptized male member of the P. E. Church above treather of the occasion. twenty-one is eligible to membership. Chief Justice Fuller is the president; Secretary Herbert, H. E. Pellew and Commissioner Truesdell, the first, second and third vice presidents; Edward F. Looker, secretary, and Wm. P. Young, treasurer.

POLICE COURT CALLERS

Street Car and Prisoners' Van Get Into a Tangle.

Several Cases Tried This Morning and the Sentences Imposed-Several Vagrants in Line.

Officer Madigan, who has charge of the prison room at the Police Court, was called from his post of duty this morning to make an explanation at police headquarters concerning a bill against the department for damage done to a Metropolitan street car by the prison van. Several days ago the van was on its way to prison with a load of prisoners when the accident happened. The railroad company had sent the bill to several places and it finally reached the police department. But in light of the explanation made by the officer the bill will not be paid without a lawsuit. He explained that the van was moving along the street in the direction of the jail when the car came from the rear of the vehicle and sustained the damage. The van is a heavy vehicle and a Metropolitan street car drawn by horses is unable to injure it.

When the officer had made his explanation, he returned to court and started Judge Kimball's small procession of prisoners. There were only fifteen prisoners locked up and a number of these were strangers in The first one called was James Simmons, who lives in this city, and the charge against him was disorderly conduct. It was an ordinary case of disorder and the usual $5 fine was imposed.

"Will you give me until tomorrow to pay the fine?" the man asked. "I don't give time any more," the judge told him.
"Judge," said Simmons, "I have $3, and if you'll take that I'll pay the other $2 tomorrow.' "Who knows you?" the court asked. "I know that he's a huckster and an orderly man, generally," answered Bailen

"Then make the fine $3," said the judge to the clerk. "Pay your $3 and go," he Michael Devereaux, a stranger who had asked for lodgings at a police station, ap-peared at the rail, listened to the reading of a charge of vagrancy, and said "guilty. "He was on Pennsylvania avenue last night begging," said the prosecuting officer. "Did you see him begging?" the judge asked. "Yes, str."

"Thirty days."

Different Kinds.

James Willis, a respectably dressed colored man, and a roughly dressed white man named Lawrence Loving, were next called. The white man said he was guilty of vagrancy, and was more than willing to go down, while the colored man was apparently offended at the idea that he should be suspected of such an offense.

"Leving came to the station last night," said the officer, "and asked that he be sent ected of such an offense.

"Where's your home?" the judge asked the prisoner.

"I have no home."
"How long did I give you when you were "Ten days.

"And why didn't you leave when you were released? "I can't travel, because I'm so badly crip-Thirty days.

The colored man was next called for an explanation. He had said he was from Baltimore, and later he claimed Staunton, Va., as his home.

"I came here," he told the court, "to see my sister, but being unable to find her last night I went to the station and asked for

"Have you any money?" "No, your honor," he answered, "but if I don't find my sister this morning I'll leave the city this afternoon.

Lively Crowd.

William Sadler, a man who is said to have a wife and several children in East Washington, and Molly Russell, a woman who is known in South Washington alley society, were called upon to answer a charge of vagrancy, and they plead "not guilty."

"I suppose you know these people," said the officer in the case. "There has been considerable fighting in Louse alley lately, and I understood that these people were engaged in it. Last night when I went there the man was at the front window, and when he saw me he ran."

The officer also told the court that Russell never goes near his wife and children.
Judge Kimball gave the man and his companion three months on the farm. A man whose name was given as John Oldsin, a German, brought up the rear of the procession. The clerk read to him an information, charging that he was dis-orderly and profane in the Central Union Mission last night, and asked: "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Certainly I'm guilty," the prisoner responded.

"This man was drunk and disorderly in the mission last night," said the officer, "and he had been put out of the place four times before I arrived there." A fine of $10 was imposed, and the man went down.

WHIRLED AROUND. Joseph Nash Has a Narrow Escape From Death.

What barely escaped being a fatal accident occurred a few minutes before 12 o'clock last night in Convention Hall. The engineer of the electric light plant of the hall, Joseph E. Nash, accidentally permitted his clothing to be caught in a shaft of the engine. Realizing his predicament, Nash shouted to his fireman, Henry Cross, who was the only other person in the room at the time, to stop the engine. The un-fortunate man was whirled around by the shaft several times, his head striking against the floor and wall at each revolution. In a few seconds the engine was stopped, and then it was learned that all of Nash's clothing had been torn from his body. His nose was cut open and he had suffered a cut under the left eye and another on the head, while his shoulder and feet were crushed. The injured man was removed to Freedmen's Hospital, where his wounds were properly attended to.

Nash did not lose consciousness at any time. He is twenty-six years of age and unmarried. At one time he was an engineer on the steamer Wakefield, but has been employed at Convention Hall for six weeks past. His home is at 814 8th street

Reception for Charity.

A charity reception and entertainment was held last evening in Convention Hall under the auspices of the Golden Circle, an organization of colored persons whose sole object is to aid the poor. Representative Thomas B. Reed, Senators W. B. Allison and John W. Daniel, H. W. Blair, Frederick Douglass, Nathaniel McKay, B. K. Bruce, Representatives N. P. Haugen and George W. Murray and ex-Senator W. P. Kellogg had been invited to be present and address the audience, but owing to he state of the weather and other reasons, Mr. Haugen was the only one who put in an appearance. The attendance, too, was rather slim, but it increased later in the evening when dancing began.

The brief exercises were opened by W. Calvin Chase, who introduced John M. Lengston as presiding officer. The latter made a short address, in which he explained the reasons for the absence of the invited guests. Letters of regret from Messrs. Reed and Daniel were read, as was a com-munication from William Pitt Kellogg, which was accompanied by a check. The hall was then turned over to the dancers, who held sway until 2 a.m.

The reception was under the management of the following officers of the Golden Circle: W. C. Martin, president; J. H. Coleman, first vice president; J. T. Allen, second vice president; H. F. Bond, secretary; M. E. Griffin, assistant secretary; R. H. Adams, financial secretary, and I. E.

Treat Your Boy!

AMUSEMENTS

Albaugh's .- Mr. Richard Mansfield delighted a large audience at Albaugh's last night by his masterly interpretation of Baron Chevrial in "A Parisian Romance." It was his presentation of this character that first brought him into public notice. He walked upon the stage in the part of the baron, an unknown actor, and the curtain fell upon a veritable triumph. He was congratulated by his associates in the cast, and the next morning all the New York papers gave him unstinted praise for his remarkable work. That was the beginning of his fame, and he has steadily grown in public favor ever since. The ability of the actor was in him before that, but it had not been recognized, and "A Parisian Romance" gave him the opportunity to demonstrate the stuff he was made of. It is not to be wondered that he still clings to repertoire. He played last night with all the cynicism that the character demanded and with that thorough attention to detail in costume, make-up and business that stamps him as an artist. His company furnished adequate support. Tonight Mr. Mansfield will appear in "Prince Karl," and tomorrow afternoon there will be a special performance of "Arms and the

"The Private Secretary."-Gonzaga College Hall was well filled last night by an audience that gave every manifestation of approval at the performance by the Dramatic Club of the Young Men's Catholic Club of Gillette's comedy, "The Private Secretary." All the characters in the cast were well taken, and the fun in the piece was well brought out. Mr. F. A. Van Reuth, the president of the club, was suddenly called upon to take the part of the Country Squire as a substitute for Mr. Waggaman, and he did it in a thoroughly acceptable manner. Mr. Harvey A. Cassidy made the most out of the title role, his professional experience being evidenced in his acting. Miss Helen Lackaye sustained positive individuality. Quite a number the Catholic clergy were present, and it is expected that more will attend tonight, when the piece will be repeated.

Georgetown Orchestra.—The box sheet shows that the first concert this season of the Georgetown Orchestra, which will take place at Metzerott Music Hall tomorrow night, will be listened to by a large au-The program will be an interesting one, the selections being such as to please nearly every shade of musical taste. The assistants will be Mrs. Thomas C. Noyes Miss Anita Cluss and Mr. John Porter Lawrence. Seats may be obtained at Metzerott's music store.

Living Whist.-The "Living Whist" which s to take place at Metzerott's Hall next Saturday evening is exciting much interest in society. A number of the most promi-nent young ladies of Washington are to take part in the performance. A pack of cards is represented by fifty-two young men and girls; they are shuffled and dealt, keeping time to the music of the Marine Band. The cards of the different suits are dressed in different colors, and as the pretty young girls and handsome men in graceful costumes dance across the stage the scene is really beautiful. Each successive trick has a characteristic dance, and as the cards are played out they move to their places, keeping time to the music, and then the four cards dance a minuet, perhaps, or a quadrille. The re-hearsals have been going on for some time, and the affair promises to be a great suc-cess. It is under the patronage of the most distinguished women in society. The beauty of the performance, and the merit of the charity for which it is given, the Young Women's Christian Home, should ecommend it to every one.

The Sutro Sisters' Recital.—Rose and Ottilie Sutro are to appear at Metzerott's Music Hall Thursday evening, January 10, n an ensemble piano recital. This will novelty to the musical public, as little of this work has been done in this country, although popular abroad. These young ladies are Americans, who, after meriting the notice of friends and musicians in their home, went abroad to complete their studies at the "Royal High School of Mu-sic" in Berlin. Prof. Heinrich Barth was the teacher under whose teltion they rapidly rose to distinction, being selected as often as two and three times a season to perform, with and without an orchestra, at the monthly public concerts of the in stitution. In the summer of 1893 they graduated, receiving the official diploma of the Royal Academy of Arts, and the warmest praise of the entire faculty, who predicted for them a brilliant future. Since their return to this country they have recelved the highest compliments and indorsements of the press and critics. The Misses Sutro have at their command the entire repertoire of duets for two pianos, with and without orchestra, confining themselves strictly to original compositions and arrangements by the composers, rejecting all those made by others. They will be assisted on this occasion by Miss Katherine Willard, mezzo soprano. Miss Willard needs no introduction to Washington; her charming voice has been often heard in social circles. Seats are now on sale at Metzerott's.

Jurors Excused. In Circuit Court No. 1 yesterday Judge Bradley excused James H. Stevenson, Wm. Reiser, Wm. D. Buckley and Geo. W. Harrington from jury service, and directed the clerk to draw the names of eight extra talesmen to complete the jury. In Circuit Court No. 2 Chief Justice Bingham excused W. F. Jones, John McGregor and Nicholas A. Colbert, and Chas. R. Overman and Chas. R. Newman were returned not found. The clerk was directed to draw tyelve names to complete the jury. Judge McComas in Criminal Court No. 1 excused L. D. Wine from service on the grand jury, and Thos. C. Elliott failed to respond. The clerk was directed to draw ten names to complete the panel. John B. Ireland, Arthur Addison, Henry H. Fletcher, Robt. Callow, E. S. Alvord, John R. Kelly and Ellis Spear were excused from service on the petit jury. Chris. Chilhoun and Geo. M. Miller failing to respond the clerk was directed to draw twenty names to complete the jury.

Death of a Well-Known Emmet Guard Thomas Walsh, a well-known member of the Emmet Guard (company A, fourth battalion, D. C. N. G.), died at his residence, 26 H street northeast, Wednesday morning at 12:30 o'clock. Mr. Walsh had been a member of the Emmets for the past ten years, he having been one of its organizers. He had served the company in the different grades of private, corporal, sergeant and hrst sergeant, and in the latter position was a great assistance to the company, he having instructed the boys in all the minor details that go to make up good soldiers. Besides his meritorious service in the Em-mets, he had also served fourteen years in United States marines. He was a general favorite with all who came in contact with him, and especially among the members of the company to which he belonged. The funeral will take place Friday evenng at 2 o'clock, and the company will attend in a body.

Broke His Leg.

The horse of Mounted Officer Thomas M. Sullivan slipped on the ice in front of the Tremont House this morning shortly after 7 o'clock and fell upon the officer, breaking the latter's right leg in two places and dislocating the ankle. Police Surgeon Nevett was hurriedly sent for, and with the assistance of Police Surgeon Hickling and Dr. Hayes set the leg.

AMATEUR JOURNALISTS.

The Capital City Club Holds an Enter-

Owing to the absence of the president and vice president, Mr. Edwin Smith was called upon to preside as chairman. Several new nembers were enrolled, which gave evilence of increased interest in the club. Many affairs relating to the organization were discussed and several committees formed, especially one to busy itself in the coming campaign. It was with much regret that the resignation of the treasurer, Mr. Wilbur Underwood, was accepted, and Mr. John Hall was elected in his

After the business meeting a program, both literary and musical, was prepared for the amusement of the club. Mr. Hartt talked on the illustrations in the magazines, especially noting how the light and shade told so much. He spoke particuarly of the picture of Evangeline and how its portrayal made him have a higher respect and admiration for the poet. The eyes and expression of the face told of kindness, of love, of womanhood. In fact, it was to him the type of a true womar.

Miss Grace Chandlee spoke on an article about flowers, which told why certain flowers painted by the Japanese are always the same. This is due to the fact that although the first flower was taken of this same flower are copied from the first painting, for the Japanese are very fond of following the rules and forms of their forefathers. In this way they continue to exaggerate their mistakes instead of correcting them. Often this set rule will be found in their landscapes, in which they use as few lines as possible. The secretary, Sarah Willard Howe, read an original story, entitled "The Pumpkin Pie," which has just been published in a western paper, and which was the prize story of the Christmas number. Mr. Hopkins, a member of the club, played a violin solo, with Miss Chandlee as accompanist. Miss Ethel Armes and Miss Penning favored the club with recitations

A Doublé Installation.

As announced in The Star yesterday af ternoon, the officers of Lincoln Post, No. B. G. A. R., and of the Woman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the post, elected to serve during the present year, were installed last night at Grand Army Hall. Mrs. J. Emma Evans, past president of the relief corps, acted as installing officer for that organization. Mrs. Sarah Poynton the retiring conductor, performed the duties of her office for the last time in pre senting the candidates for installation. Prayer by the retiring chaplain, Mrs. Rose, preceded the ceremonies. At their conclusion Mrs. Rose, on behalf of the members of the corps, presented Mrs. Nannie G. Davis, the retiring president, with a handsome piano lamp, as a token of heir esteem and appreciation of her serv ices. Commander Holmes also presented her with a corps badge in gold, from the nembers of Lincoln Post.

The installation of the officers of Lin-coln Post followed. J. M. Cutts, who had been appointed assistant mustering officer by the department commander, acted as installing officer. S. A. Campbell, the re-elected officer of the day, escorted the candidates for installation. After the in-stalling officer had delivered to the newly-elected commander the charter and ritual of the post, the gavel and countersign for the year, Junior Vice Commander John Bresnahan, on behalf of the post, pre-sented the retiring commander, James N. Holmes, with a gold watch, engraved with a suitable inscription. At the conclusion of the business session of the evening the members listened to an address by Representative Pickler of South Dakota.

INCREASED DEATH RATE.

Brought About by the Change in the Weather. The severe change in the weather during. the past week-from Indian summer tem perature to arctic cold-was followed by an increase in the mortality of the city as compared with the previous week. The cause for this increase is general. With the exception of the smallpox cases now under treatment and either isolated or in quarantine, there is no epidemic disease prevalent slight increase in the deaths from acute lung diseases-of which there were nineteen—is not above the usual averag for this season of the year. Like influence undoubtedly resulted in a rise in the rate of mortality from brain and kidney diseases. Diphtheria and scarlet fever are at a minimum, and the two deaths only from the former indicate that it does not exist in a formidable degree. The death rate for the total population was 20.8 as against the annual mean of 23.2, thus showing that the health of the city is that much better than the general average. The total deaths were
